

Please stand up to the anti-competitive efforts of the broadcasting industry to stifle satellite radio. Deregulation has allowed the commercial airwaves to be swallowed up and homogenized by large corporations. It is hypocritical, at best, for them now to seek regulation to protect them from competition.

I have a long daily commute and the continuous comprehensive traffic reports on XM Radio have actually improved my life. In the past, by the time I heard of a traffic problem, it was often too late for me to choose an alternate route.

The bottom line is that I choose to pay for for this service, and there is no good reason it should be unavailable to me and millions of others..
